The Internet of Things & Tomorrow's Law Firm

Speakers: Caleb Davis and Matt Mahon
Ricoh Legal

The Internet of Things (IoT) devices represent potential points of security failures, and the data they generate or collect are raising new privacy concerns. How should law firm administrators, law firm IT Departments, and the lawyers they support manage such concerns and what do you need to know about this growth area?

Real-world examples will help explain and clarify how the new connected world impacts our daily work lives and the clients that you represent. As more and more devices connect to the Internet – everything from trains to air conditioning units to smoke alarms – the potential for the Internet of Things (IoT) to drive efficiencies, increase productivity and promote economic growth is becoming reality. There are now four times as many connected devices in the world than there are automobiles! How does your firm support this explosion of discoverable data?

We will discuss the broad topics of security, the power of the Emoji, Internet of Things, and how the new Federal Rules of Civil Procedure impact the new connected world. You will learn how the Fitbit might infect your network; why your home insurance carrier may care what your home thermostat thinks; or why an Emoji might save you from a harassment claim.
